

Resource Directory of Professional Certificate Programs

- The Joint Commission's Integrated Care Certification program for Joint Commission-accredited hospitals, critical access hospitals and ambulatory health care providers is a voluntary certification that focuses on promoting and supporting clinically integrated patient care among hospitals and ambulatory health care providers.
- The Behavioral Health and Integration Training Institute is a 40-hour continuing education training offered in a one-week format, targeted to current mental and behavioral health professionals interested in furthering their skill and knowledge base on integration and behavioral health. Participants are eligible to receive continuing education credits through Radford University.
- A Certificate Program in Primary Care Behavioral Health from the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health at the University of Massachusetts Medical School offers licensed mental health professionals certification to work as primary care behavioral health providers.
- The Certificate in Integrated Behavioral Health and Primary Care from the University of Michigan - School of Social Work is designed for direct clinical practitioners -- social workers, nurses, care managers, psychologists, and physicians -- who deliver or plan to deliver integrated health services and who serve populations often presenting with complex needs in physical health, mental health, and substance use.
- The Addictions Certificate Program from the University of Michigan - School of Social Work is designed for direct clinical practitioners - social workers, nurses, and psychologists - who deliver or plan to deliver behavioral healthcare services to addicted populations that may present with additional complex and comorbid mental health and physical health needs.
- The University of Washington - AIMS Center provides an online training for psychiatrists working in primary care. The training provides an introduction to practice in an integrated care team. This online training consists of five modules that describe the basic structure of an integrated care program for behavioral health in a primary care setting and provides information on the process of development and implementation of an integrated care team.
- University of Maryland School of Medicine's Behavioral Health Integration in Pediatric Primary Care supports the efforts primary care providers (PCPs), including pediatricians, family physicians, nurse practitioners, and physician assistants, in assessing and managing mental health concerns in their patients from infancy through the transition to young adulthood.
- The Certificate Program in Integrated Primary Care \(CIPIC\), offered by Fairleigh Dickinson University, reviews key principles of integrated primary care. Major program topics include basic concepts in integrated primary care, attributes of the care provider, practice standards, assessment, and program development.